Specification of certain applications of Statistics Sweden's revisions policy in the Savings Barometer

Professional communication is part of Statistics Sweden's mission. Well-chosen channels, carefully drafted and coordinated messages, language adapted to the recipient, and appealing and helpful visual design are all essential in enabling Statistics Sweden to fulfil its mission.

The Savings Barometer is a preliminary calculation of the household sector, which is a subset of the financial accounts. It is published around one month before the financial accounts and no new revisions of the time series are made for the Savings Barometer. Only the revisions made for the publication of the financial accounts are included for the publication of the Savings Barometer. Information about the revisions made for the publication of the financial accounts is available in the accompanying statistical news.
